CONSTABLE ADMITS SENDING DEATH BOMB

BURY VICTIMS AT WHITEHALL ON THURSDAY

Bartlett Says He Couldn't Stand to Have Krubaech Run Township

SIGNS CONFESSION

Hundreds Attend Funeral Services of Three Killed in Mail Outrage

Muskegon, Mich. — (AP) — Asa K. Bartlett, 28-year-old Blue Lake township constable, has confessed sending the bomb that killed August Krubaech, supervisor, his daughter, Janet, and her fiancé, William Frank, last Thursday. Details of the document will not be revealed until after Bartlett is arraigned Tuesday, according to R. G. Dunn, prosecutor who made the announcement that Bartlett had confessed.

Bartlett signed his name to the confession just as the three hearers and long funeral procession of the three bomb victims moved away from Elk's temple here on the 18 mile journey to Oakshurst cemetery at White hall.

"I couldn't stand to have Krubaech running the township," was all Bartlett vouchsafed in explanation.

Details of the confession have been at Bartlett's request. He said he did not want to upset his parents and friends by the confession until after Memorial day.

TO WITHHOLD CONFESSION

Officials readily agreed to this especially in view of the increasing bitterness against Bartlett in the Whitehall and Blue Lake district. Hundreds of the country folks drove many miles through the sandhills and cut over lands Sunday to pay tribute to the slain tavern keeper, his daughter and "Opie" Frank, the girl's sweetheart from childhood to whom she was to have been married Saturday.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Charles A. Clay of the Whitehall Congregational Church who was to have officiated at the wedding.

The pastor told Mrs. August Krubaech that because of the feeling in the community he would not trust himself to preach a funeral sermon and he confined the service to the reading of the scriptures and prayer.

Officers intimated that "sensational developments" would follow revelation of the text of the Bartlett confession.

Bartlett has told the prosecutor he will waive examination Tuesday and go at once into circuit court to plead guilty to the charge of first degree murder on which he is held. If this program is followed Bartlett may be on his way to prison before details of his confession are made public.

BLUE, GREY PAY TRIBUTE TO WISCONSIN DEAD

Athens, Ga. — Veterans of the Union and Confederate armies join Monday at the national cemetery at Marietta, Ga., near here, in paying tribute to Wisconsin Civil War dead.

A monument erected by the state of Wisconsin is to be unveiled as the closing feature of a national memorial day celebration.

Dedication of the monument will be under direction of veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic. The ceremony is under the auspices of the local Spanish-American war camp.

BURN RESORT OF "SCAR-FACE AL"

Police Say They Will Not Investigate Origin of Fire

Chicago — (AP) — The gaunt ruin of the stockade, vice resort and gangster rendezvous of Forest View brought no pall Tuesday to the Memorial day celebration of the little suburb, dedicated to World War dead.

Torches of vicelikes set ablaze Sunday the "Capital" from which the community had been ruled for months by associates of Scarface Al Capone.

Chicago gangster chief Capone wrestled control of the municipality from the war veterans who incorporated it and police had come to know it as Caponeville.

The building, deserted since gangdom has been rid of police in quest of Capone suspected of knowledge of the recent machine gun slaying of W. H. McSwiggan, assisting state's attorney, has been in charge of a Negro caretaker.

The motor cars rolled up to the building before dawn and the occupants, overpowering the servant set the structure afire. Combusting devices, a luxurious car and a dance floor which police say brought $100,000 a month to the owner in its better days, burned.

A nearby fire company finding no water available confined its efforts to saving adjacent buildings.

City Prepared To Honor Memories Of Its Heroes

Appleton, ever mindful of the heroic men and women who offered their lives on the altar of devotion to their country, was prepared Monday to honor their memories in a special manner. Elaborate preparations for observing Memorial day were completed last week and all that remained Monday morning was to await the signal which would start the parade Monday afternoon.

Veterans of America's wars with other patriotic organizations assembling were in charge of the day's program which consisted of two short processions services in Lawrence Memorial chapel and exercises at Riverside cemetery.

Graves of veterans had been decorated with flags and wreaths on Saturday afternoon, and on Sunday thousands of people flocked to the cemeteries to see to it that the last resting places of their loved ones presented fitting appearances to the other thousands who would see them on Monday.

The dwindling soldiers of the Grand Army for whom Memorial day was a special charge for many decades are gradually permitting the tender burden to rest on the shoulders of their stalwart successors, the soldiers of the American legion. While the grand old men still are as active as the young, permit the actual work connected with official honor to the memory of their comrades has been left to younger men.

The Rev. Henry S. Gatley, rector of All Saints church, was to deliver the principal address at Lawrence Memorial day program here. The service is to be held at 145, following a short parade of military organizations band and other societies starting at 130. Following the chapel exercises the organizations and the public will go to Riverside cemetery where brief ceremonies will be held. After the cemetery services the organizations will be dismissed for the day.

LOSE SUPPORT THRU POLICY IN PRIMARIES

President Coolidge Will Suffer Reaction from Political Selfishness

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1926, Post Pub. Co.
Washington — Although there have been no conspicuous evidences as yet of the growing hostility between the members of the Republican party in the senate and President Coolidge, the cloakroom atmosphere is none too friendly to the White House. The feeling is due to a number of unrelated causes and while it may be a passing mood there is no escaping the fact that it exists.

When Democratic senators a few days ago began to express in cynical terms their viewpoint on the Pennsylvania, taunting the Coolidge administration for its failure to persuade a Republican state to renominate Senator Pepper, there were encouraging remarks on the side which indicated clearly that an attitude of political selfishness will in the end work to the disadvantage of anyone who adopts such a policy. They insist that politics is a give and take matter and that the very hesitancy which Mr. Coolidge has shown toward the extension of direct help to those who have assisted him in congress will cause sectionalism to thrive inside the party. They also declare that the chances of winning more seats in congress will be impaired if Mr. Coolidge does not take an active part in the campaign.

But while the desire for presidential help is apparent in the political discussions at the capital, one must look deeper than this to find out just what the anti-Coolidge movement is based upon. The truth is the 1926 presidential campaign has already begun.

There are various candidates inside the senate as well as a number of active managers outside the senate all of whom realize that they must depress the Coolidge stock before there is a chance for any of their favorites. They are by no means united and they have no particular flaw to find in the legislative policies of Mr. Coolidge, with the possible exception, of course of farm relief. It is too early to forecast whether the candidates from the western states can develop anti-Coolidge sentiment inside the Republican party because of Mr. Coolidge's unwillingness to go along with the western Republicans on the Haugen bill, to which the president objected because of its price-fixing features.

When the time does come for outspoken opposition to another nomination for Mr. Coolidge, it will be based upon the theory that it was never intended for a president of the United States to serve more than eight years. The influence of the senate in national political conventions has increased materially in recent years, and it is delegates who will be sought to secure that unless Mr. Coolidge makes peace with some of the dissatisfied members of his party in the senate he will bring upon himself organized opposition to a third term even as early as two years before the nominating conventions are held. For it is customary in politics to begin the pleading of delegates a year or more ahead of a nominating convention.

If delegates were to be sought to oppose Mr. Coolidge would find real opposition among the Republicans of various states who have accumulated grievances not the least of which are the complaints that he has not "played ball" with the Republican organization and senators.

"God grant we may never have another war, but if we ever should I hope that no man in America will make a fortune out of it. To our disgrace be it said that in the World War, while our boys were fighting in the trenches, while the great mass of our people on farms, in villages and in factory were making sacrifices to help win the war, some men have made vast fortunes out of it. We now have a bill pending in Congress seeking to prevent this condition ever occurring again, but to mind it does not go far enough. The bill should provide for the drafting of dollars just as freely as it does the drafting of men. To the greatest extent possible, there should be quality of sacrifice upon the part of capital as well as upon the part of men."

Senator Lenroot Scores War Profiteers in Memorial Day Address

Blue Lake — (AP) — America owes a duty to posterity to "do our part to prevent war in the world," without surrendering any of our own freedom of action, Senator Irvine L. Lenroot declared in a Memorial Day address here.

He declared the World Court was designed to prevent wars.

"We believe it will help prevent war in the future and that is why we are concerned in it and are willing to it our moral endorsement," he said.

"If war shall ever come to us again we and we alone, must decide that issue. That is why we have refused to join the league of nations. Paying tribute to the Wisconsin soldier, he said.

"In the Civil war, in the Spanish-American war, and in the World War, Wisconsin troops distinguished themselves."

Every Women Invited To Attend Cooking School

Many hundred women have become better cooks in the last two years because of Post-Crescent cooking schools and many more will improve their knowledge of food preparation in the four day school which opens on June 8. The school will be held in Elk club from 2 to 4 o'clock every afternoon. No charge of any kind is made and every woman in Appleton and surrounding territory is invited to attend.

Mrs. Alma E. Hunt, Chicago, not a stranger to Appleton women, will again be in charge of the school. Mrs. Hunt has had wide experience as a teacher and as a home maker.

She not only knows how to cook but how to tell others how to cook. She is considered one of the most successful teachers of cookery in the country.

Mrs. Hunt does more than just tell women how to mix ingredients to make certain foods. One can learn that out of cookbooks. She tells why certain things are done and she carries on a rapid-fire talk which is loaded with suggestions for easing up home work, for cutting corners and for taking some of the difficulty out of the business of feeding a family.

Congress All Heated Up Over Andrews' Dry Order

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington — General Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement, is a military man through and through.

His idea of attaining an objective is to attain it at any cost.

Casting about for means of multiplying the number of dry agents in the land, he was struck by the thought, "Why not make state troopers and local policemen dry agents too?"

It was a bright hunch, which would have more than doubled the forces at his command if there'd been no hitch.

Andrews is a soldier, and legality is a question the soldier doesn't have to consider. The less legality the better, in time of war. The command who stops to inquire "Is this stunt I'm about to pull off according to law?" is apt to get backed.

So the general put his scheme up to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Mellon, who's giving his dry career a perfectly free hand, recommended it to President Coolidge, whereat the president signed an executive order authorizing the designation of state and local police as federal prohibition agents to serve at $1 a year apiece and empowered to operate regardless of state lines.

Then the row started.

It seems that the order is of doubtful constitutionality. It certainly conflicts with a number of state laws.

Of course it enraged the wets. That was to have been expected. But it doesn't seem to have made much of a hit with the dries, either. In fact several of them have denounced it roundly, in Congress.

BODY HOOKED BY FISHERMAN IN WOLF RIVER

Send Vital Organs to State Chemists for Examination

CALL CORONER'S JURY

Last Seen Early Sunday When He Waited on Group of Fishermen

Investigation into the death of Charles Wellnitz, 63, whose body was taken out of the Wolf river near Fremont Sunday morning by a fisherman, was deferred pending examination of his vital organs which have been sent to state chemists in Madison. A coroner's jury viewed the body Sunday afternoon at an inquest and then adjourned subject to the call of Otto L. Olen, Clintonville, Waupaca-co. district attorney, who conducted the hearing.

Wellnitz' body was found by Henry Braemer, a fisherman while the latter was pulling a weighted hook along the bottom of the Wolf river fishing for whitebait.

Wellnitz manager of the 2 o'clock hotel was last seen about 2 o'clock Sunday morning when he waited on a group of fishermen who wanted to get an early start on the river. He saw to it that they were given boats and bait. His wife searched all over Fremont for him during Sunday but had no intimation that he was drowned.

Wellnitz was found about a mile from his home, near the Wolf river. He had no children.

While there were no marks on the body to indicate violence an autopsy was ordered to determine the cause of death. Dr. E. H. Jones who assisted in the inquest said death might have been caused by apoplexy.

The body was found about a mile downstream from Lakeview hotel.

Members of the inquest jury are Alvin Billington, Edwin Sade, Leonard Kloehn, Frank Hildebrandt, Roland Wells and B. F. Pitt.

Funeral services will be held at 130 Tuesday afternoon at the German Lutheran church with the Rev. Ervin Schmidt in charge.

STILL DISCUSS DRY QUESTION

Prohibition Continues to Be Main Subject Among Congress Members

Washington, D. C. — (AP) — Despite the fact that congress will not resume its sessions until Tuesday, prohibition continues to be a leading subject for discussion by its members.

Representative Cramton, Republican of Massachusetts, in a statement published Monday called for a special house investigation to determine whether Representative Cramton Republican Michigan or any other member "has received money or fees from the anti-saloon league or any other organization interested in legislation pending before congress."

Senator Borah, Republican Idaho, meanwhile, has taken occasion to reiterate, before the Presbyterian general assembly at Baltimore his opposition to referendums on the prohibition question in the states. Proponents of the referendums are charged with being "a course looking to nullification of the eighteenth amendment."

Charging that the anti-saloon league "controls the government" of the United States through fear and by money, Representative Cramton made public a resolution he introduced Tuesday in which he cites a newspaper story quoting Representative Cramton, ardent sponsor of various enforcement measures, as saying that "from time to time he has received money or fees from an ecclesiastic and political organization known as the 'anti-saloon league'."

This was published April 21 he said, and has not been denied.

CAPTURE 5 BANDITS WHO STAGED 3 HOLDUPS

Chicago — (AP) — Five heavily armed bandits who had staged three holdups in less than an hour were captured by a detective bureau squad here early Monday after a running revolver fight. More than 75 shots were exchanged and both the police car and the large stolen sedan in which the holdup men were riding were riddled by bullets.

Famous Petticoat Flag Is Presented To Ohio Museum

By NEA Service.

Columbus, O., — A faded, powder-stained old flag of Civil War days, worn for long weeks as a petticoat by a little Quakeress, said staunchly loyal to the Union, rests in a place of honor in the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Museum at Columbus, O.

If this old flag with its 34 stars still shining out from its faded folds of blue could speak, it could tell one of the most colorful romantic of the many tales taken forth from the tissue wrappings of memory and shown on Memorial Day.

And not many miles from the old flag, and near enough to visit it often, lives a white haired old man to vouch for the flag's story, and hold his feeble old shoulders a bit higher as he remembers his part in that story. He is General J. Warren Keifer, 90 years old, former speaker of the House of Representatives and the oldest living former speaker.

His law shingle still hangs out in Springfield and his said that "smart law youngsters" fear the competition of the old general.

But friends of the general like "the petticoat story" best of all those that cluster about his snow-white head.

Back in June, 1863, when cannons roared out the green slopes of the Shenandoah Valley, General Keifer, then straight and strong of limb, commanded the Union Fort Milroy, near Winchester, Virginia.

The fiery southerners were raining shots too fast and furiously and President Lincoln ordered Keifer to break camp.

Reluctantly the general gave way to the enemy, but to deceive them longer he left his unit's flag waving proudly and bravely from the camp's highest point.

Next forenoon the Confederates stormed the hill on which the empty camp. But the flag of the enemy was there.

Jeff Davis was collecting captured Yankee flags for a celebration of southern success, and the boys who packed the Union flag in a box to ship to "Jeff" in Richmond, Va., they did not think of the loyal and brave hearts of two Union loving girls in the neighborhood, Mary Joy and Anna Jackson, Quakeresses.

Mary Joy, a girl living in the home of a Joseph Jackson near the fort, had married a young Union soldier, Edward Kipp, but a short time ago. He had left her for his regiment, and she feared he might be among the prisoners brought by the Confederates to Fort Milroy.

She was right. Going secretly to the fort in the dead of night, she found her husband. He and another prisoner prowling about the fort, had found the boxed-up flag and stolen it from the box.

DANGEROUS JOB

Anna Jackson was chatting with some Confederate soldier admirers when Mary Joy returned with the famous flag petticoat. Calling her from the room the flag was given her.

Then began days of rapid moving for the famous flag. The fort had missed it. The Jacksons were suspected, and searching squad after searching squad came to the house while the flag, moved from ash barrels to under beds and mattresses, down cellar in garret and smoke houses. The seas went on. The war was over. The blue and the gray slept in grassy hillsides together. Anna Jackson was married now. Her name was Mrs. Joseph L. Rees.

Exactly 60 years from the date of the historic flag's capture, it was sent to General Keifer, saying that it was really his own regiment's flag.

The general presented the "petticoat flag" to the state of Ohio, where it rests in Columbus, as one of the most colorful memories of the war.

Anna Jackson, the Quaker maid of the long ago, died only a few months ago, aged 88, still treasuring her part in saving the Union flag.

SENTIMENT OF COUNTY G. O. P.
IS NOT KNOWN

Attitude Regarding State Convention Undetermined
by Republican Club

Whether G. O. P. delegates from this county will attend the Republican state convention at Milwaukee, June 24, for the purpose of selecting a state ticket has not been determined by the Outagamie County Republican club, according to J. D. Steele, president of the organization.

Sentiment of the club regarding the Milwaukee meeting probably will be crystallized within ten days or two weeks, but up to the present time nothing has been done. Mr. Steele declared. Just what action the county organization will take regarding the state convention is difficult to determine, according to leading G. O. P. members in the county. Some are vigorously opposed to the Milwaukee convention which, they claim, will be a repetition of the gathering at Oshkosh last fall. Others hold an opposite view, it is said.

If a meeting of the county organization to select delegates to the state affairs is to be held, announcement of it will be made within two or three weeks, club officials state.

A number of county organizations throughout the state are preparing for the state convention. Brown County Republican committee will meet at Green Bay, June 5 to elect 16 delegates and 16 alternates. A precinct meeting of Republican electors who are regarded as "conservatives" or opposed to the progressive Republicans, will be held at the various voting booths there on May 29.

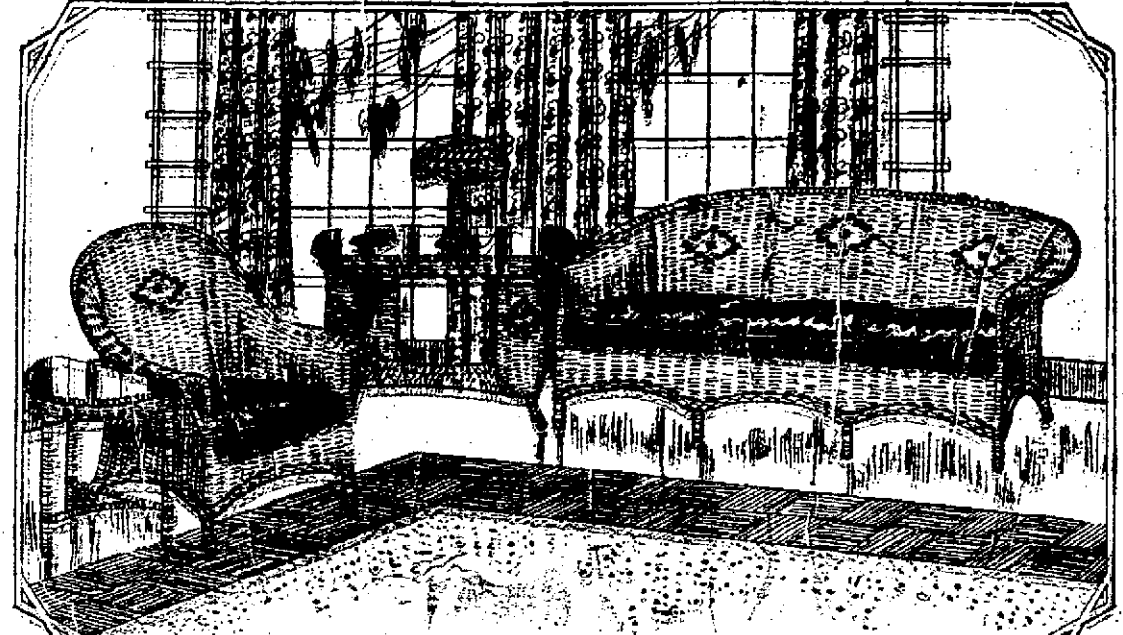

Officers of the Outagamie County Republican club are: President, Joseph D. Steele; vice presidents, May or Charles E. Rauff of Kaukauna,

MANY BICYCLES
UNCLAIMED AT
POLICE STATION

A second-hand bicycle store could be profitably conducted by the police department, for a short time at least, if it was decided to dispose of the eighteen or twenty "wheels" now in the storeroom.

Every year a number of unclaimed bicycles are found by the police. While some owners appear from time to time to claim their vehicles, many bicycles are not identified. It is, of course, impossible to trace them easily as automobiles. In many cases the bicycles are probably stolen in other cities and brought to Appleton. Most other articles found by police are eventually claimed by owners and there is no accumulation of lost or stolen goods, such as may be found in larger cities according to Police Chief Pinn.

VETERANS HAPPY AS THEIR GREAT DEEDS STAND OUT

G. A. R. Chief Says Comrades
Are Dying at Rate of 20,-
000 a Year

BY JOHN B. INMAN
Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic

Springfield, Ill.—Our great national funeral day comes today with its understanding sorrow and joy and regret that so many of our comrades have reached the river's brink and have crossed over.

But there is rejoicing for us, too,
in that their achievements stand out in bold relief on the escutcheon of our country's greatness where flowers may possibly be strewn upon the waters in remembrance of those comrades who sleep beneath the sad sea waves.

It appears to me, as commander-in-chief of the great Grand Army of the Republic, that we should be proud and happy to co-operate with other ex-soldier societies, but not forgetting that the men of the 60's made the day possible.

We feel a deep sense of gratitude to our younger compatriots who are only too glad to concede leadership to "us boys" of the 60's.

THERE ARE BUT 110,000 SUR-VIVORS OF THE UNION ARMY OF
THE CIVIL WAR. OUR AVERAGE
AGE IS 83. AND WE ARE CROSS-ING THE GREAT DIVIDE AT THE RATE OF NEARLY 20,000 PER YEAR.

Not until over the last comrade have been pronounced those pathetic words,
"Fare ye well, lights are out, the soldier sleeps," shall come the greatest glory of the Grand Army of the Republic.

I mean no disrespect to any comrade of any war when I say we had no predecessor nor will we have a successor.

We know the work we were set to do. We know the task we were given to perform, and we know we performed it.

We have taken our place in the history of this republic, and now as we shall go down through the valley of the shadows and out into the everlasting sunshine, we beseech as did they of old, "Let thy servants depart
in peace!"

And may the principles for which these boys contended go down the ages, building for them a monument that shall span this interesting space which we call time and rest on the towers of two great eternities, one that was, one that is to be.

ens this year, farmers of Outagamie County state that hatching conditions here are normal. Oconto reports a 50 per cent hatch while farmers near Appleton report a percentage that averages from 70 to 80.

It also is reported that white diarrhea is wiping out flocks of young chicks at Oconto. Farmers near Appleton say that conditions are normal and only a few cases of this deadly scourge are known.

COUNTY BOARDS MEET THIS WEEK

Annual Convention of Association to Open at La-Crosse on June 1

Wisconsin County Boards association members will hold their annual convention at the courthouse in La Crosse from June 1 to 3. A program of addresses and discussion of topics has been arranged, as well as a pleasing social program.

Topics of interest to Wisconsin counties and their officers will be covered in the addresses and through round table discussions. Every county delegates will be expected to take part in the program and to help in the exchange of ideas and experiences in administration of county affairs.

Mayor J. J. Verchota of La Crosse will deliver the address of welcome, and R. W. Davis, president of the association, will respond. Other speakers on the program are John Callahan,
state superintendent of public instruction, L. J. Brody, district attorney of LaCrosse-co; C. D. Rosa of the Wisconsin Tax commission; Fred R. Zim-

CAN'T ASSESS RADIOS, SAYS FORMER TAX MAN

Radio sets probably could be classed either as household goods or musical instruments and therefore cannot be assessed as personal property, in the opinion of Mayor Albert C. Rule, former city assessor. Neither household goods nor musical instruments which are not used for commercial purposes can be taxed as personal property, he pointed out.

Assessors in some parts of the state have expressed opposite views. They maintain that the statutes do not include radios in exemptions for musical instruments and for household goods
and consequently have issued instruc-

BUILDING PERMITS

Four building permits authorizing construction of two garages and two miscellaneous projects at an estimated cost of $800 were issued Friday by Walton Zschaschneider, building inspector. The permits were granted to Anton Ellenbecker to move a shed at 113 S. Walnut-st., G. Schindler for a garage at 1346 W. Rogers-st.; Albert
G. Krause for a garage at 528 N. Division-st. and J. Kempf for an addition to a residence at 909 W. Lawrence st.

tions to assess radios. Radios were not well known when this particular law was put in the statutes, and such reasoning cannot very well stand, according to Mayor Rule.

Cable-Nelson Pianos are Heirloom Pianos

When you purchase a CABLE-NEELSON you procure a piano you can pass on to the next generation.

You will get a lifetime of service out of it for yourself and it then may be handed down as a precious heirloom.

The cabinet work is so excellent, the finish so deep and lasting—like a piece of fine old furniture it becomes more beautiful with the passing of years,
while the tone becomes more mellow and responsive with use and age.

The Cable-Nelson can well be said to be twofold satisfactory. Satisfactory to you to buy and satisfactory to us to sell—especially so, in view of its very moderate price.

Use Concrete for Permanence and Firesafety Big Value for Home Builders

You will have an attractive home if you build it of Guenther concrete blocks. But that is only one of many values they come from the use of this splendid building material.

A concrete block house is a masonry house—strong and sturdy. It is firesafe.

It will call for minimum of upkeep.
Concrete masonry construction offers greatest value to home builders. Its cost is within the means of anyone who can afford a home.

it. She must marry Frank Doelinar, of Mary could have used the money very well. Ask any clerk in a grocery store if

MOTHERS AND CHILDREN

Many people find a sob in the story of the mother blackbird who was dashed to death with her five fledglings when she refused to desert them.
The mother and her brood nested high up on the girders of an old bridge across a river of Ohio. Wreckers razing the bridge sought to drive the mother away
before the last hack of the giant mechanical ax sent the bridge hurtling into the river 80 feet below.
But the mother bird would not stir, clinging to the nest, calling out in that weird cry of terror which sometimes birds, always mute before, can bring forth.

The poets and mother idealists find a tear and parallel here for the glory of motherhood. They are right. Nothing in the whole world equals the eternal devotion and stand-by-ness of mothers.

But—on the other hand, children of today whose minds are sharpened to keener thinking than their mentalities, react to too wholesale a lauding of purely biological qualities that are born in a person and not developed through rigorous training and self-control.

For instance, in the bird case, this new type of child might ask, "nice of her, but instead of flying around and clucking like a frantic emotional old biddy, why didn't she get busy and try to carry at least one or two of them away in her beak before the crash came?"

Just an answer to parents who wonder why their children seem sometimes so unkind!

VOTERS MUST NOT SLEEP

When the voters go to sleep strange things happen at the polls. Popular and efficient candidates often go down in defeat because the public had thought everything was settled.

Nothing is ever "settled" in politics, and Knoxville, Tenn., is one example. The people of Knoxville supported the city manager plan of government and put in a manager who paid dividends in the form of a 10 per cent tax rebate about two years ago.

But today the manager is out, and politics rides in the saddle again. It all happened because the voters napped on the job, while the politicians didn't. The political forces forced a recall election on certain councilmen. The voters refused to take the recall seriously, and the politicians'
plan to weaken support for the manager within the council succeeded.

A manager cannot work if he is fought at every turn. He must have the council's backing. The manager at Knoxville had broken his health in fighting the people's battles, without reward, so he did the only thing feasible when he resigned.

When the voters doze there are queer quicks at the polls.

TODAY'S POEM
By HAL COCHRAN

The common shout of nowadays is always Safety
First. You'll hear the cry no matter where you go.
It's just a short expression that has duly been rehearsed, and it's one that everybody ought to know.
When little folks start off to school they'll hear their mother say: "Now watch your step when crossing over the street. Play safety as to autos
'cause they take the right-of-way, and it's up to you to be the one discreet."
And then you'll find at crossings, where the railroad trains whiz by, a warning that you ought to understand. It's "Safety First" that greets you, where it's sure to catch the eye. It tells you of the danger near at hand.
The "Safety First" idea is a good one, I'll admit,
but it's weak when figured right down to the letter.
It seems 't would be much stronger and 't would make a bigger hit. Don't you think that Safety Always would be better?

New York woman says she shot her husband because she loved him. Better throw a few dishes at your wife.

They say tax returns indicate prosperity. Anyway, they indicate prosperity for the government.

You can drive a car while hugging a girl and still keep your mind on your business, but not on your driving.

Too much mustard on a hot dog makes it a mad dog.

A Detroit woman who failed at suicide three times should try crossing a busy corner without looking.

LEFT FOOTED FOLK LISTEN

A genuinely or naturally left handed person is left footed, left sighted, and even has a more sensitive sense of touch, taste and smell on the left side of the body. Of course these functions are all more highly developed on the right side in right handed persons. Whether there is right and left earedness, that is, whether left handed persons have more acute hearing in the left ear, we'll leave for them to testify in this symposium. I expect readers to contribute the most interesting and more important part of this series of discussions on left handedness—I'm just serving as secretary of the meeting. There is just one thing I hope readers will remember when presenting observations concerning one earedness: it is essential to know that more acute hearing in one ear is not the result of disease or injury of the other ear.

Although man has binocular vision that is, the two eyes regard the object together but from two points of view, which give perspective, and a sense of depth or distance, if we had but one eye everything would appear formless and flat like a picture. But while the two eyes fuse the two views into a perfectly blended composite impression, nevertheless right handed persons are right eyed and left handed persons are left eyed. Indeed, some scientific students believe that right eyedness is the determining factor of the right handedness and left eyedness of left handedness, for they point out visual impressions or stimuli are the chief causes of muscular movements in the infant and visual experience, and training is the most important part of the development of the child.

Eyedness, handedness, footedness, speech, writing, memory, volition and other brain functions which comprise intelligence, personality and character are all dominated or controlled by nerve centers in the left side of the brain of a right handed person or in the right side of the brain of a left handed person. Thus a cerebral hemorrhage (stroke or shock of paralysis) in the left side of the brain is likely to cause paralysis of the right side of the body with impairment of speech, writing, memory,
etc. In a right handed person, but such a hemorrhage or injury of the right side of the brain of a right handed person will produce left sided paralysis but no impairment of speech, writing, memory or personality, because these functions are controlled by one side of the brain.

I believe it would be a great advantage in education or culture if every child were taught to write with either hand indiscriminately. Ambidexterity (rather non-dexterity) is universal among the anthropoid apes, to be sure, but one the other hand ambidexterity is generally considered an accomplished, resourceful person of outstanding personality, although ambidexterity of a kind is sometimes noted in mental defectives, particularly idiot savants.

The brain center for the control of speech is located in the third frontal convolution of the left cerebral hemisphere in a right handed individual,
and closely associated with it are the brain centers for the control of movements of the fingers and hand and arm of the right side. Scientific observers have found that the favored hand is used for expression even before the beginning of speech. The sign language probably preceded voice speech in evolution, as it does in the development of the child.
It is not only natural but essential for full expression that one should "speak with his hands." Right now my right fist protests writing. "To be continued in an early number."

LOOKING BACKWARD

25 YEARS AGO
Monday, June 3, 1901

Appleton led the Wisconsin league with a score of three victories and no defeats. The third victory was gained when the local team defeated the Kaukauna the previous day with a score of 5 to 4.

A son was born the previous night to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bothhausen.

Louis Lohman and Ira Lee left that morning for Wittenberg where they were to start a sheep ranch on a plot of 160 acres of land which they had purchased.

Marriage licenses were issued the previous Saturday to Louis Schaarman of Black Creek and Bertha Staker of Center; Chester J. Dean and Elsie Boyd of Seymour; Nicholas Salm of Kaukauna and Elizabeth Karthaus of Appleton.

The marriage of Peter W. Drysdale of Appleton, a bookkeeper for the Patten Paper Co. and Miss Annie Carruthers who had been visiting for several months with her uncle John McNaughton was to take place June 12th.

J. H. Kamp, Chris Roemer and Otto Kuehmed
left that evening on a fishing trip to Maeder's ranch at Shawano.

Committees to take charge of services of the young men's Sunday evening class for the month of June included ushers: Willis Babb, chairman; E. W.
Brewster, Fred Wetzel, Henry C. Schiel, F. O.
Loetz, Herman Gotschow, B. A. Scott, Pliny Earle, O. F. Ackerman, Ralph Pomeroy, Amos Adsit and George Ashman; printing, Rev. F. T. Rouse, chairman; J. F. Fuller; music, Dr. H. E. Ellsworth, chairman; E. B. Theby and Herman Heckert, Jr., invitation; N. C. Gintz, chairman; A. E. Heidmann, F.

Clayton Sherry, J. C. Meyer; program, Arthur B.
Schiel and Robert Hatch.

10 YEARS AGO
Monday, May 23, 1916

E. C. Otto of Appleton won the first prize of $40
at the spring tournament of the Fox River Valley
Skiat league at Kaukauna the previous afternoon.

Belott won the track meet from Lawrence by a margin of 2 1/2 points the previous Saturday.

The annual class day exercises at Appleton high school were held that afternoon. Carl Neidhoff was to deliver the Ivy oration after which he was to hardt Kubit. Wilber Heuer was to read a humorous paper on characteristics of the Senior class and Elmer Root was to present the key of Knowledge and Success to the Juniors who were to be represented by Ruth Ryan.

Miss Irene Foster entertained friends the previous day at her home at Hancock-st in honor of her birthday anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. William Nielsen, 1186 Oneida-st, entertained about 15 guests the previous day in honor of the birthday anniversary of Mr. Nielsen.

Those who participated in the Zion school program the previous day were: Walter Wetzel, William Gust, Harvey Kuechel, Edward Junge, Leonard Jacobs, Walter Schaefer, Lawrence Koepke, and Lester Stark, Robert Zilke, Elsie Rodke and An-

Lies a heart that beat so true."

She was on Broadway when Grant

I was at the Appleton Depot when the Boys left for The Spanish American War and again when our youth of the first draft left for the World War.

As the train pulled out the band played, "On Wisconsin."

Later in Chicago I was on La Salle-st, when "Riley's Rucks" came home in the rain. Watching from a tall building I noted the sea of umbrellas, covered with confetti and flower petals. We noted the space left in the ranks where the Buddies might have been. Autos carried the maimed ones.

We cannot forget the music associated with those times, "Over There." "I'll be sitting with my knitting." "There's all out of step but it's for the people who come to our

FOR BETTER LIGHTS

Editor Post-Crescent—What is the matter with Appleton? For, certainly, there is something radically wrong
when the citizens of this city are willing to pay for electricity, which presumably lights the streets, but in reality only makes the glow of the stars or moon (whichever is the brightest) more luminous.

With a city as large as Appleton
on our hands, we, as citizens, are sadly delinquent in the matter of lights for our main thoroughfare. Strangers who visit us scoff at them, people in surrounding cities laugh at them. They are, as one person was heard to remark, like candles in a high candle holder which gives but a faint gleam on the surroundings far below.

Did the citizens wish these so called lights put there in order that they might furnish electricity for the people in the upper stories of the buildings on College avenue, for that is what they seem more likely to do, though if their feeble rays can even penetrate that far, is doubtful.
Look at Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Neenah, Menasha, all the surrounding cities have streets which are at least exhibited to the public at night,
while anyone might ride down College avenue in the evening and think he was driving through nothing more than a country town, and not a city of 20,000 inhabitants.

Wake up folks, look after Appleton. Now that we have a Cherry Street bridge, let's light the way to it for the people who come to our midst. We have some new ruling powers in Appleton now. Let's get busy.
Make our city something to be proud of.

VOLCANIC ERUPTIONS PLEASE HAWAIIANS

Honolulu (AP)—There are several sure signs of volcanic activity in Hawaii. One of them is quakes. A second is sulphur fumes. A third is a rise in taxi rates.

Dr. T. A. Jaggar, eminent volcanist, does not regard eruptions in Hawaii as alarming, nor do the citizens. In fact, by and large this phenomenon "sets people wild with joy." The steamship agencies, the hotels, the taxi-drivers and everybody else begins to grin.

The reason is that the quakes, although they often number 150 a day in the vicinity of Kilauea, are so gentle that no one is annoyed. The taxi-drivers do a tremendous business taking tourists to view the impending eruption or the one already under way and the hotels and steamship companies get their share of the business.

The sulphur fumes are so light, says Dr. Jaggar, that the direction of the vent from which they come could not

OAT ACREAGE IS REDUCED WHILE RYE INCREASES

Sowing of Small Grains Nearing Completion Second Week in May

Chicago (AP)—The monthly Business Condition Report of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, which will be issued June 1, will say that reports from agents covering conditions on 195,953 farms in 120 counties in the Seventh district indicate that the oat acreage has been reduced somewhat from earlier intentions this year and in comparison with a year ago, as the result of unfavorable weather at seeding time.

Sowing of small grains neared completion by the second week in May, when farmers began planting approximately the same acreage of corn as last year; but warmth and moisture were needed to bring about satisfactory germination and normal growth to the plants. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics, on the basis of May 1 conditions, estimates a production of 72,662,000 bushels of winter wheat in the five states included in the Seventh district, compared with $2,071,000 bushels harvested in 1925. This same authority expects the crop in the United States to aggregate 548,908,000 bushels, or a gain of 150,442,000 bushels over the small planting raised last year and only slightly less than the 1916 average harvest. About 2 per cent more rye than a year ago is estimated for the five states of the Seventh district, while the figures for the country as a whole have been reduced 8 per cent under those for 1925.

Intended plantings of truck crops show a reduction in acreage devoted to cantaloupes in Indiana, but increases for onions in the Pleasant Valley district of Iowa, while averages of commercial cabbage in Illinois total about the same for 1926 as for 1925, with a gain indicated in Iowa.

Information sent direct to this bank by the 120 county agents shows the losses of young pigs have more than counterbalanced the increase in farrowing, so that the total crop of spring pigs in the Seventh district was reduced 3.0 per cent below last spring. The number of marketable hogs remaining on farms May 10 showed a decline of 9.5 per cent from the corresponding dates in 1925.

Creameries in the Seventh district increased their production during April 11.5 per cent over March and 20.8 per cent over a year ago, according to the compilation made from the reports of fifty-eight firms. Statistics released for April by the American Association of Creamery Butter Manufacturers indicate a similar trend for the country as a whole. The quantity of creamery butter billed to customers by sixty companies in the Seventh district total 3.5 per cent more for April than for the preceding month and was 11.7 per cent larger than for the corresponding period of 1925.

At the principal markets of the state, receipts of cheese from Wisconsin factories during the four week period, ended May 1, increased 13.0 over the preceding period, and gained 9.7 per cent over a year ago. Distribution of cheese from the Wisconsin centers gained 6.3 per cent and 16.7 per cent, respectively in the two comparisons. April receipts of dairyproducts exceeded those for March. May 1 stocks of butter at storage warehouses and packing plants in the United States showed an increase of 0.6 per cent over the previous month and 21.7 per cent over the five year average for that date; cheese inventories decline 7.5 per cent from April but totaled 63.4 per cent in excess of the 1921-25 average for May.

The number of cases of eggs on hand was seasonally greater than at the beginning of April, although less than a year ago. Chicago prices for

CARSON SCHOOL STUDENTS HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

Twenty-five school teachers and more than 200 children, parents and friends attended the annual picnic of the Carson school district at Carson school near Brillion Friday. A program of picnic races and games furnished entertainment throughout the afternoon and evening. The umbrella race was won by Babe Clancy and Mr. Becker, town chairman, won the horseshoe contest. The school grounds was decorated in yellow and purple.

A lunch was served in the evening with Miss Agnes Platterly, teacher of the school chairman of the serving committee. Other members of the committee were Miss Genevieve Clancy.

butter and cheese averaged lower than in March, while those for eggs increased owing to the customary movement of the latter commodity into storage at this season. Quotations for butter strengthened somewhat after mid-April; those for eggs eased slightly early in May.

Crystal flowers are vogue in London. Miss Alice Kruchinskie, Mrs. Ralph Kosh, Miss Tessie Brick, Miss Isabelle Short, Miss Helen Flatley and Miss Earla Schmitt. A dance was held after the supper. Music was furnished by the Carson school orchestra.

PICNICS

NOTICE CITY WATER USERS

On account of water conditions many people are compelled to use city water for washing and are inconvenienced because of its hardness. To overcome this add one teaspoonful of Rub-No-More Washing Powder (the Original So Water Softener) to each gallon of city water. IT SAVES SOAP. Besides its 15 household usages it is the only cleanser that will clean sinks and tubs and dissolve upon rinsing. No sand left to clog drain pipes. adv.

U. S. SOON WILL BE COVERED BY NET OF AIRLINES

Lieut. Macready Predicts Big Commercial Airship Companies in America

EDITORS NOTE: This is the first of two articles by Lieut. John A. Macready, famous aviator and holder of the American altitude record, in which he gives his views on the future of commercial aviation in this country.

BY JOHN A. MACREADY
Holder of America's Aviation Altitude Record

A vast network of cross-country air-plane lines, linking city with city and town with town in a manner that will provide a speedy express service faster by far than anything now in existence—

Quick freight service through the air that will transport small freight parcels and perishables in half the time required by mail—

Crack passenger planes running on regular schedules and bringing all the great cities of the nation within a few hours' time of one another—

This, as I see it, is the future of commercial aviation in this country. And it need not be a distant future, either.

Machines and Pilots Ready

The materials are now at hand. Splendidly developed machines are available, many skilled pilots are ready, and all necessary information as to weather conditions, etc., is easy of access.

The airplane has, beyond question, proved its ability to perform regular commercial work. Planes have ascended 30,000 feet; planes have stayed in the air for more than 40 hours without landing; planes have made non-stop flights of 2,700 miles. In addition, the aerial service has demonstrated that airplanes can make regularly scheduled trips, over all sorts of country, almost without regard to weather conditions.

I say "almost" without regard to weather conditions. There remains one big obstacle to be overcome before commercial air lines can run with the clockwork regularity of steam railroads. That obstacle is fog.

Darkness, wind, rain and cold are difficulties but they can be surmounted. Thus far, however, no way has been found to overcome the handicap of a dense, clinging fog blanket. A plane simply cannot fly in a heavy fog. The risks are too great. You dare not pilot an airplane at 100 miles an hour when you cannot see 20 yards in front of you.

I have been asked, "Can this be overcome?" At present it cannot. Later, perhaps, it may. Remember, the airplane is only 20 years old. Aviation is still in its infancy.

Aside from the handicap of fog, however, the question is raised, can airplanes profitably carry bulk freight loads? If you speak of things like coal, iron ore and so on, of course they cannot. But express packages, perishable commodities of all sorts—decidedly yes.

Can Carry Several Tons

The army now has planes capable of taking 43,000 pounds into the air. Deduct slightly more than half of this for the weight of the plane itself, a little more for the weight of its gasoline, etc., and you still have a "useful load" of several tons.

And the airplane is rapidly becoming more economical to operate. A loaded army plane of the latest type, carrying several thousand pounds "useful load," averages just about four miles to the gallon of gasoline. This is not far from the average of the ordinary heavy-duty automobile truck.

What, then, prevents the establishment at this minute of big commercial air lines? What, in other words, must we do before we see our land covered with a network of express air lines?

A Free Booklet
On Yellowstone Park
For School Children.

Every school child should have a copy of the Yellowstone booklet which our Washington Bureau offers for free distribution. This offering will be helpful in the study of this great national park.

Of all our national parks it is the wildest and most universal in its appeal.

It has more wonders than all the rest of the world together. It has mud volcanoes, petrified forests, a canyon unequalled for natural coloring, blue lakes and rivers filled with trout, and the greatest wild bird and animal preserve in existence.

Send today for this beautifully illustrated booklet telling all about Yellowstone. Fill out the coupon below and send two cents in stamps for return postage.

Frederic J. Haskin, Director,
The Appleton Post-Crescent,
Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

I enclose herewith two cents in stamps for return postage on a free copy of the booklet YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK.

APPLETON LEAGUERS GUESTS AT PROGRAM

Neenah—Mt. Olive and St. Matthews Walther League of Appleton were guests of the Neenah Trinity Lutheran Walther League Sunday in an all day entertainment.

The leagues attended the morning service at the church. In the afternoon a program of short plays by the Bible class, music by the choir and a talk by J. Buchhop of Oshkosh, was given. In the evening, following a supper served by the young ladies of the choir another entertainment was given by the choir.

MILWAUKEE NABBED FOR HAVING BLACK BASS

Neenah—E. F. Wagner of Milwaukee, paid a fine of $50 and costs Monday to Justice O. B. Baldwin on a charge of having black bass in his possession. He was arrested Sunday by A. Dunham, game warden, while on his way back to his home from the north where he had been spending a few days fishing.

Neenah—Miss Helen Bergman and Donald Hollinbeck received the diamond ring and watch given by P. A. Haertl, jeweler, to graduates of the 1926 class upon whose names the hands of a clock in his window stopped. The clock which was wound a week ago, stopped Saturday evening.

Neenah—Albert Jensen of Chicago is visiting Neenah relatives for a few days.

Neenah—Frank Sharpless has returned from Kansas City, Mo., where he has been attending the aviation school at Richard field.

John Hunt of Manitowish spent Sunday with Neenah relatives.

Mrs. Helen Colburn and daughters, Virginia and Lucy, of North Fond du Lac, and Miss Cora Lansing of Wisconsin, spent Sunday with Neenah relatives.

Melvin March, who has been confined to Theda Clark hospital for the last four months with a fractured skull and broken leg, resulting from a fall while at work at the Textile factory, will return Tuesday to his home.

Joe Yanzgen of Milwaukee spent Sunday with Neenah relatives.

Philip Gaffney of Madison is sending a few days with his mother, Mrs. William Gaffney, E. Wisconsin.

Mrs. Roscoe Wildfang of Milwaukee is visiting relatives in the twin cities.

role, not only in the try-out but also in the New York production in which she was an outstanding favorite from the opening night at the Little Theatre, where "Pigs" ran for ten months and in Chicago six months.

STEF RIGHT UP AND MEET LOUISE BROOKS

Who is Louise Brooks? In New York, if one asks that question he is verbally guillotined for lack of knowledge. One gets something like this in reply: "You don't know Louise Brooks? She's the cute little brunette who made such a hit dancing in 'Louise the 14th' last year. And since then, they tell me, she has appeared in a picture called 'The American Venus.' Louise was one of the prize beauties, and now she's been signed to a long term contract."

All of which, while a bit sketchy, is exactly what has happened to Miss Louise Brooks. If there are such things as meteoric rises in the film world, she has had one. And to set any anxious minds at rest her latest role is that of the pretty manicurist who becomes a stage star, in Adolph Menjou's latest picture for Paramount, "A Social Celebrity."

To be shown at Fischer's Appleton Theatre for 3 days starting tomorrow.

Malcolm St. Clair, the director, predicts great things for the little lady, claiming that she has a "certain something" which succeeds in getting over. Certainly, to be featured opposite Adolph Menjou in

This Is For You!

Mrs. E. Desorties

Minneapolis, Minn.—"My husband and myself have received great benefit from the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which we take as a general tonic. It improves our general health in every way. I am glad to recommend the 'Golden Medical Discovery' to any one who feels run-down in health."

Stop into any drug store and ask for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in tablets or liquid, or send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial pkg. and write for free advice.

Legion Head Calls On U.S. To Honor Soldiers

BY GENERAL JOHN REA M'QUIQQ
Commander-in-Chief of the American Legion

Indianapolis, Ind.—During the week of May 30 the shrines of America are the graves of her soldier sons.

From time immemorial it has been the wont of people to pay tribute to those who have composed the nation's armies and have fallen on the field of battle or died since.

Tablets, monuments, triumphal arches and places erected in honor of their heroic dead have dotted the high places of nations, ancient and modern. The memory of those who have perished amid the clash of armies is cherished through the centuries.

In this all but universal custom of paying lasting tribute and honor to those who have faced the withering blasts of war, America is no exception.

But with us it has taken the additional and somewhat unique feature of an annual Memorial Day—a day when the marts of trade are stilled and the thoughts of the people are directed to the deeds of those who have made possible the United States of America as we know it today.

To help in making this splendid land a still better place in which to live; to assist in rendering more efficient the government that protects us; to aid in speeding the day when peace based on justice and security shall prevail among nations, and to secure proper care for those who yet suffer from the scars and stress of battle, as well as for widows and orphans of those who have answered the last call—these are the aims and purposes of the American Legion.

To their accomplishment let us rededicate ourselves on this Memorial Day as with muffled drums and measured tread we march to the cities of our dead.

Also comedy, News, scenic and organology.

RIN-TIN-TIN AGAIN PROVES GREAT ACTOR IN HIS NEW PICTURE

"The Clash of the Wolves," at the New Bijou Theatre for three days is the latest of the series of pictures that "The Wolf" has turned out with the dog, Rin-Tin-Tin, in the star role. If you liked any of the other pictures, you will be sure to like this one. And you probably will like it better than any of the others.

It shows Rin-Tin-Tin as Lobo, the leader of a pack of wolves who are driven from the forests of the high Sierras down into the cattle country by a tremendous fire, which, by the way, makes an amazing and thrilling screen spectacle. Lobo gets befriended by a young boxer prospect (Charles Farrell), who takes a leaf from the book of Androcles and extracts a thorn from the beast's paw. The story concerns the clash of the wolf's protector with the hunter who are on the animal's trail.

It is a thrilling story, thrillingly told. Written for the screen, "The Clash of the Wolves" tells its story in action. The action is sustained with dramatic pace through the fine direction of Noel Smith.

WEYAUWEGA MAN EASY WINNER IN KAUKAUNA SHOOT

Breaks 100 Targets in Singles and 46 in Doubles in Registered Event

Kaukauna — The Kaukauna Gun club was host Sunday afternoon to five other clubs, all members of the newly formed Northeastern Wisconsin Trapshooting league, at their grounds of the north side. It was the first registered shoot of the league. There were many marksmen present on all over the state. The program included a single target event of 100 birds and two doubles events of 24 pairs.

D. C. Hayward of Weyauwega broke 100 straight targets and won first place in the singles. He added more to his list laurels when he broke 46 out of 24 pair of doubles, thereby taking first place in the doubles also. Mr. Hayward is a member of the Kaukauna Gun club. This is the first time in the history of the local club that a hundred straight targets were broken on its grounds.

W. R. Harwood of Kaukauna was second in the doubles breaking 42 out of 24 pair of birds.

Professional high gun at the shoot was E. W. Renfro of Oshkosh. Mr. Renfro is with the Peters Ammunition Co. He won the Oshkosh radio set. Three professional men attended the meet. They were: E. W. Renfro of Oshkosh, Edward Ashley of the Western Cartridge Co., Green Bay and L. D. Russell of the Remington Cartridge Co., Milwaukee.

Winners of special prizes were: First event, first prize, electric flat iron, D. C. Hayward of Weyauwega; second, straw hat, A. H. Pitz of Manitowish; second event, first prize, smoking stand, A. Morek of Oconto; second, Waldeman knife, E. J. Nelson of Manitowish.

Third event, first prize, electric windshield wiper, A. Madison of Oconto; second, rolled boneless ham, Harry Wells of New York City; fourth event, first prize, wool jumper, Daniel Nicholson of Green Bay; second, Senter reel, Gordon Bent of Green Bay.

First place in the doubles, at thermos bottle, went to D. C. Hayward of Weyauwega. W. R. Harwood of Kaukauna took second and was given a gentleman's umbrella. All of the prizes were donated by Kaukauna merchants.

In the team event Coleman won four straight from the Appleton club. Manitowish won the same number from Oconto and Green Bay and Kaukauna broke even, each winning two.

This was the largest shoot ever held at the Kaukauna grounds. The next Kaue shoot will be held at Appleton, Sunday, June 20.

BUSINESS ENVELOPES SHOW RIOT OF COLOR

Chicago — (P) — Four weeks business mail received in one Chicago office yielded 105 different envelope linings of distinctive color and decorative design. This statistical note was made by Miss Yolanda Schamberger who has devised a new hobby — the collection of such linings.

Her collection discloses an evidently thriving branch of industrial art. These linings are like the modest violet but none the less elaborate. They range from gold and old rose to gray and green. Some reproduce the artistic forms of King Tut's era. Upon others caper ladies and gentlemen in the flowered brocade of Pompadour's day.

HARD FAMILY
The maid-of-work strike notice, "But," protested the mistress, "haven't we always treated you as one of the family?"

"You have," replied the girl, "and I've stood as long as I'm going to."

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRES-COTT TO LITTLE MARQUISE, CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER—Continued.

I noticed that Sally looked tired and worn out but she seemed in good spirits which is usual with her. I have made some very fine friends in my married life, Little Marquise, and Sally Altherton is one of them. I never knew when we were girls how loyal and true she could be. I am going to tell her this the moment we have the least time alone together.

I opened the door of the nursery softly. Little Jack was building a very elaborate block house for his baby brother who sat beside him on the floor expressing his approval with numberless sorts of "goos" and "ga's."

"Oh, little Marquise, I've always been so sorry for you that you did not know the joy of a child who called you mother. Whatever else we women may wish for in this life we will never know the great happiness that can come to us unless we have this great blessing."

"Now, buddy," said Jack, "you mustn't knock this house over. We'll play it's mover's house and we're in a hurry to get it done before she gets here. She's just going to think we're the bestest boys to make her a house that she can live in."

"Ga, ga," said little Sydney.

"Yes, I know just what you are thinking. De house is a very little one, but mover said to me de other day she always wanted to live in my heart. Dis house is bigger dan your heart, Buddy, and it's bigger dan my heart. If she can live in our hearts, she can live in dis house."

"Goo, goo," said Buddy, clapping his hands ecstatically.

"Yes, I knew you would understand all about it as soon as I told you," exclaimed little Jack gravely.

Just at that moment the baby caught sight of me. He lurched forward with a gurgle and of course knocked the block house down. With a cry of dismay, little Jack turned to see what had taken his brother's mind off his mover's house.

In an instant everything else was forgotten and John Alden Prescott Junior was in my arms.

At last the Marquise, that I should have made him wait until I could pick up baby Sydney, but the great eyes of my eldest son were so filled with radiance and his lips so tremulous with joy that I had to give him a fleeting if fervent caress as I stepped across the room to pick up the baby who was also clamoring for kisses and attention.

I could not wait to find a chair. I sat down on the floor with Jack's clinging arms tight about my neck and Buddy's tiny face close to mine. I knew that whatever should come to me in the future, unless it entailed their loss, no one—nor nothing—could ever make me completely unhappy.

Adventures Of The Twins

The Sward-Fish And The Balloon-Fish reached the corner of Sand Avenue on 'Sard' boulevard on their seashores. And there stood Cap'n Pennywinkle at the corner with a Stop-and-Go signal beside him.

They rode right up to him and the little policeman started to shout "They, there! Don't you see the sign? It says 'Stop' and when it says 'stop' you're supposed to—Why, hello here! If it isn't my friends, Nanny and Nick. What can I do for you?"

The Twins introduced the Whiffet and told all about his losing his shadow. "The stork said he saw a shadow run into the sea," said Nanny, "so we decided to follow it. Did you see a strange shadow about?"

Before Cap'n Pennywinkle had time to answer, there was a loud bang and everybody jumped. "Oh dear! There's been a collision!" cried the fairy policeman. "I forgot to watch my signs."

The sword-fish had run into the balloon-fish and punctured him. "I'll have to take your number," said Cap'n Pennywinkle to the sword-fish, writing in a little book. "You must appear at court in the morning and pay the costs."

"It was his fault as well as mine," said the sword-fish. "We both started across the corner at the same time."

"Anything you say will be used against you," said Cap'n Pennywinkle. "And if you keep on talking, I shall have to put you in jail." The sword-fish swam away and Cap'n Pennywinkle went to the corner telephone. "Give me Shadrow 9876," he said. "Hello! Is that the repair shop? Send someone over at once to help move a wreck. It's causing a traffic jam. Tell them to bring a tire-pump along."

"What's all this got to do with shadows?" said the Whiffet. "I'm getting pretty wet, too, I tell you. Not that my beautiful purple bombazine suit can shrink any more, but the salt may fade it. And then what'll I do? My shadow gone, my suit spoiled, and half my buttons spent!"

"Well," said Nick, "we're doing the best we can, Whiffet. And it's all our fault the wreck happened. Here comes the repair truck now."

The repair truck stopped and a fairy merrman got out and swam over to the punctured balloon fish with his tire pump. Then he pumped the balloon fish full of air and put a patch over the hole. "There you are! Good as new," he said. "Ten shells please."

"Send my bill to the sword fish," said the balloon fish, swimming away. "Come along here, everybody," said Cap'n Pennywinkle, turning his "Stop and Go" sign again.

A big whale who was the bus and carried forty passengers on top, went whizzing by. Then a shark and a black fish and a porpoise swam past. The porpoise had to turn a somersault every now and then, which held things up a bit, but what could you do?

Really there were so many fish passing that corner that the sunlight was shut from the white sandy bottom of the sea entirely. It was as bad as a rainyday when clouds cover the sky.

"There are no shadows here," said the Whiffet with a pout. "I mean it's all a shadow. I'll never be able to find mine."

Time Savers

The great American instinct is to save time—a lot of time—and then some more time.

In the big affairs and the little things of life, time seems to have taken on a mythical value—to be more precious to us than money.

We must have limited trains, special editions of our papers—and quick lunches. The institutions and utilities that we admire are the big time savers—the telephone and telegraph, our railroads and electrical conveniences.

And there is another great time saver in the lives of the people of Appleton—the service given by the Post-Crescent's classified section.

When it comes to immediate action and eleventh-hour accomplishment—when time is money—the classified section of the Post-Crescent is in a class with the other big time savers of everyday life.

Read it regularly!

BOOK ON FISH IN BIG DEMAND AT PUBLIC LIBRARY

"The Bat," by Rhinehart Also Continues to Be Popular Story

"Bass, Pike, Perch and Other Game Fish," by J. B. Henshall, one of a new group of books received recently at the Appleton Free Public Library, has been in great demand since the opening of the fishing season. The book deals with habits of these fish, the places where they are usually found and methods to catch them. Several other books of fish and fishing have proved popular with the reading public. A catalog of their collection of rare old books, by Lyon and Healy also has been in demand as has the Bat, by Rhinehart, a novel which many Appleton people have seen on the stage and in the movies.

The following books have been received:
Abbot, Jane—Julia Is Twenty; Adams, S. H.—The Pinner's Fee; American Literary Association—Poetry Day Book; American Yearbook 1925; Berman, L. T.—Abolishment of the Electoral College; Dexter, E. W.—Colonial Women of Affairs; Doyle, A. C.—The Land of Mist; Espino de Serna—Conchita Marfior; Fletcher, J. S.—The Cartwright; Gaudens Murder; French, J. L.—Sixty Years of American Humor; Geister, Edna—Getting Together; Givyska, Countess—Glass Houses; Harris, Cora—Flapper Anne; Henshall, J. B.—Bass, Pike, Perch and Other Game Fish; Irwin, Wallace—Mated; Johnson, J. P.—Child Labor; Johnston, Mary—The Great Valley; Oberholzer, "History of the U. S., vol. 3; Laughlin, C. E.—So You're Going to England; Lewis, Sinclair—Mantrap; Lyon & Healy—Catalog of Their Collection of Rare Old Books.

Millay, E. St. V.—The Harp Weaver and Other Poems; Morris, E. R.—The Silk Quilting; Nicolson, Harold—Swimburn; Norris, C. G.—Pig Iron; Opatky, J. B.—Language of Advertising; Spaulding, R. D.—The First Tale Told; Rhinehart, M. E.—The Bat; Smith, O. W.—Book of the Pike; Smith, O. W.—Casting Tackle and Methods; Stewart, D. O.—The Crazy Fool; Truelove, R. H.—Oils, Pigments, Paints, Varnishes, etc.; Veiller, Laurence—A Model Housing Law; Williams, Ellis C.—Cottage Building in Cob, Flax, Chalk and Clay; Witt, Gustav—The White House, F. G.—He Rather Enjoyed It.

Finland's new ice breaker proved so effective in the harbor that the ship was frozen in the harbor all winter, which was the most severe in years, have been able to leave.

COMPLETE PLANS
FOR HIGH SCHOOL
CLASS EXERCISES

Will Present Pageant Portraying Four Year History of Class

An elaborate program in which 64 seniors will take part has been arranged for the annual Appleton high school class day exercises on Wednesday, June 2. A pageant portraying the four year history of the class will be enacted. The spirit of the senior class will be played by Marie McCloskey, Leila Boettcher, Josephine Arndt, Josephine Buchanan and Betty Post will represent the freshmen, sophomore, junior and senior seasons respectively.

Those who will take part in the program representing freshmen are Annette Lutz, Annette Post, Miriam Lewis, Jeanette Clausen, Robert Zschachner, Henry Belzer, Max Goudemann, Gustave Krueger, Ray Kneip, Paul Gebke, Leo Solinger, Henrietta Pratt and Milton Lillge. For the portrayal of the sophomore history Margaret Murphy, Lydia Becker, Florence Hitcher and Helen Ziegler will represent the girls' basketball team. The presentation of a flag to the school will be enacted by Regina Wentmann and Harold Eads. In the junior year Carl Voelck, Edward Rammer, and Elmer Stammer will depict junior track and the junior prom will be represented by Eunice Bloomer, Mary Gallagher, Georgina Schmidt, Lucille Manser, Robert Wolf, Arthur McCanna, Clair Miller and Edward Blessman. Wilmer Grimmer will act as advertiser to the junior class play.

In the senior year the culmination of all four years of high school work will be shown. The work on the program will be depicted by Bertha Greenberg and Herman Schwager and The Glorian activities will be shown by Alice Brigham and Harold Frank. Doris Thompson will represent the general spirit of music. Edward Steenis will be the band. Elizabeth Meatinge the orchestra. Glenn Opperman the boys' glee club and Rosetta Sellg the girls' glee club.

Carl Schiebeler, senior class president, will present the historic speech to Francis Rooney, president of the junior class, while Jane Steenis will award the key to the city to the senior class member. Schiebeler also will present the gift of the senior class to the school. The class poem will be read by Meredith Bandy.

Seasonal dances will be an added attraction. Those taking part in the dance of summer are Dorothy Smith, Helen Gilman, Catherine Russell, Jane Steenis, Betty Thompson, Barbara Timme, Dorothy Douglas and Gertrude Plank. Those taking part in the winter dance are Doris Hoffman, Catherine Klobben, Arnold Meyer, Gertrude Plank, Edith Meyer, and Virginia Peterson. Osa Zuehlke will present several solo dances.

NEENAH LOOKS AHEAD TO STRENUOUS WEEK
Neenah—Beginning with Memorial Day, Monday, the present week is to be busy for Neenah. Tuesday morning the one-day session of the National Equitable Fraternal union convention opens. In the evening John Randall Dunn will appear at the Saxe Neenah theater in a lecture sponsored by the local Christian Science church. Wednesday evening a class of 75 candidates will be initiated into the Equitable Fraternal union by meeting of the city hall. Thursday evening the convention will end with a public dance in the Riverside park pavilion. Final examinations in the city schools will start Thursday. Saturday, the third monthly pig day will be held.

Plan To Reduce Paper
Money To Coupon Size

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington — You'll hardly know whether it is money or a merchandise coupon after the treasury's committee on redesign of the currency gets through.

Their plans for revamped paper money are expected to save about $1,000,000 a year and to provide much handier currency. Their problem is to take care of the paper money and let the coins take care of themselves.

The proposals, in brief, are to reduce the size of bills by about one-third, to eliminate the yellowbacks and make other color changes, to simplify and standardize design and to stop printing some of the little-used denominations. These proposals are not yet official. They are revealed now directly from the committee, however, and are believed to be virtually assured of adoption.

MELLON HAS AUTHORITY
Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has authority to make such changes in the currency without consulting Congress. The committee on redesign of the currency, however, is expected to report within a few months. After the secretary orders the changes,

Our money is printed eight bills at a single impression on large sheets. The Philippine currency was printed 12 bills to the sheet. It is proposed now to adopt this size of bill.

When it is considered that the government uses about 1200 tons of paper a year for printing money, it is apparent that such a cut in size will affect a tremendous saving.

Furthermore, the smaller-sized bills will not be folded so much and will give longer service. Tests already made by federal reserve bank tellers show the smaller bills can be handled faster.

CHANGING PATTERNS
There are in circulation now 11 different denominations of bills: the $1, $2, $5, $10, $20, $50, $100, $500, $1000, $5000 and $10,000. Four of these probably will be withdrawn. They are the unpopular and hoodoo $2 bill and the $500, $5000 and $10,000. There is little demand for these.

For the 11 denominations now in use there are 39 different designs. There are five different kinds of $10 bills, for instance. The committee is expected to recommend one distinctive pattern, and no more, for each denomination.

This simplification will limit the use of any portrait to only one denomination. At present the face of Washington is one both the $1 bill and the yellow back $20.

The portrait, being a steel engraving, is the surest protection against duplication and the feature most easily detected in a counterfeit. To use the same portrait on two bills is considered an opportunity for falsifying the low one.

Colors are to be changed also. Yellow ink can be bleached off with comparative ease and it is to be discontinued. It is proposed also to print the backs of bills in two colors instead of one as at present.

By selecting a combination such as dull green and dull brown, it will be made exceedingly difficult for a counterfeiter with an engraving camera to pick out the two different colors for making separate plates.

The money problem is big business with the government. A count recently disclosed that it had outstanding 421,000,000 bills of the $1 denomination alone. Printing just the $1 bills costs about $5,000,000 a year. A ton and a half of them are turned in for redemption every day.

EXPECT SILENT PRAYER TO MAKE DIETARY VISIBLE
Tamarack, Minn. — (AP)—Although most of the 200 residents of this little village are opposed to him, Victor Ewing, local optometrist Monday put finishing touches to his plan for a silent hour prayer gathering to be held in the open here Monday.

He was confident that several thousand persons would head his call for the meeting and hopeful that there would be a divine manifestation as a result of the prayers, which will start at 10 o'clock and conclude at 11 A. M.

None of the regulation methods of worship will be used. There will be no singing or preaching—only silence. This, Ewing believes, will furnish "God with his first opportunity to have his way" and as a result the deity will make himself visible.

A modern automobile highway is being built between Valparaiso and Santiago, Chile.

KING WINS POLO CUP
King Alfonso of Spain, right, is a member of the winning polo team of a tournament staged at Puerto de Hierro for cups offered by the English ambassador. He is shown holding one of the trophies. At the left is Marquis de Villaverde, a teammate.

HOUSE SOLD OUT FOR SENIOR PLAY
A packed house will greet Appleton high school students who are cast for parts in the annual senior play, "Just Out of College," to be presented Monday evening at Fischer's Appleton theater, as all seats were reserved several days ago. This cast for this year's production includes more than 30 students and is the largest for any high school play attempted in recent years. The story "Just Out of College" was written by George Ade, famous American humorist.

Y. M. C. A. OFFICERS OF STATE WILL MEET HERE
The entire employed staff of the state Y. M. C. A. will convene in Appleton Tuesday for its annual conference, according to George F. Werner, general secretary of the local association. Invitations have been sent to the secretarial staffs of all the neighboring associations to meet with the state officers and more than 40 are expected. These will include secretaries from Wausau, Green Bay, Fond du Lac and Appleton, Mr. Werner said.

State officers who will attend the conference are Guy V. Aldridge, state secretary; W. H. "Dad" Wones, state boys' work secretary; Ray V. Sowers, state high school secretary; E. H. McKee, state student secretary; J. H. Hoff, state county work secretary; all of Milwaukee, and W. H. Babcock, northeastern district secretary. Eau Claire. The theme of the conference will be How the State Association Can Give the Most Service to Local associations.

DISCOVERIES OF
SCIENTISTS MAY AID RADIO FIELD

Washington Is Center of Great Movement Toward Development of Sciences

Researches and discoveries being made in scientific fields outside of radio promise even more revolutionary improvements in this field than have surprised the world heretofore. The center of this great movement toward development of the sciences and the incidental advancement of radio, is the nation's capital.

Here are the U. S. Bureau of Standards, the various laboratories of the U. S. Departments of Agriculture and of the Interior, the naval research laboratory, the Smithsonian Institution and its allied scientific organizations, besides many other public, semi-public and private laboratories.

Most of these organizations are directing their efforts to developing scientific arts practically unrelated to radio. Yet somehow or other radio crops up in the process of research and this new popular science gains in progress.

NEIGHBORS' WIVES

ERNEST LYNN, AUTHOR OF THE YELLOW STUB

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JOHN MILBURN, partner in the advertising agency of GRAHAM AND MILBURN, finds the birth of a baby girl to his wife, FAY, as a big event and the turning point in their marriage.

John is of a romantic nature, which finds an outlet in the advertising copy he writes. He is impractical. In his family his wife runs the budget, just as in the advertising business the financial details are run by GRAHAM. The firm is small, being just two years old but promising. There is one artist, BRIGGS, and a stenographer and secretary, MISS KNISLEY.

While Fay is in the hospital John is invited to a swimming party at the country place of PAT FORBES and his wife, John goes, and on his way to the pool, sees a beautifully formed woman diving off the spring board. Pat tells him it is NELL ORME, and hints of trouble between her and her husband, HOWARD.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
(The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER V

"Come on down and meet the crowd," urged Pat, gripping John's arm. He cupped his hands and yelled. "On Nell—Howard, Nell, here's a man Hurry up."

He grinned. "Wait till you get a good look at her, John."

The Ormes emerged, dripping rivulets of water. John quickly appraised the well-knit, muscular figure of Howard Orme, getting a fleeting impression, as he scanned the other's face, of a mouth that was tight-lipped and set in a straight line.

Pat said, "This is John Graham, Howard. Good friend of mine and a regular fellow." Their hands met, both murmuring some commonplace of greeting. Then Howard Orme's wife came up, and Pat, still "doing the honors," made an elaborate introduction.

Her hair, John saw, was hidden by her tight-fitting bathing cap, but her eyes were light brown beneath black, dark brown eyebrows. She extended a friendly hand and greeted him in a firm clasp, and he had an opportunity to take in the tight one-piece green bathing suit and her figure, which seemed all melting curves.

Others arrived, all of whom John had to meet. There were the Smiths, of which couple the man was portly and well-fed in his bathing suit and smoked a cigar, and the woman so colorless that John kept forgetting her name all evening. There was a couple named Fry, with two wrangling youngsters, a boy and girl, who seemed as much at home in the water as two little water spaniels.

Fry, John gathered, was the comedian of the little community. He dived down into a basket and brought up a string of smoked sausages, barking the while in imitation of a dog. He also had a habit of kneeling down on the sand behind a person and having someone else push the unfortunate victim over his back. At the first opportunity he got the men off in a little group of their own and regaled them with all-house stories, laughing uproariously at his own jokes. For all of his boisterousness and cheap humor, though, John rather liked him, and was immensely amused at the apparent feud between Fry and the sturdy Smith.

The two snapped and snarled at each other and took every opportunity that presented to turn a joke on the other. They stole each other's sandwiches, put salt in each other's coffee, and finally Fry crept up behind Smith's back and rubbed the other's face thoroughly with watermelon rind, running desperately into the water as the enraged fat man gave pursuit.

"You'd actually think they were mad at each other sometimes," Pat remarked to John as the rest of the crowd, the children especially, launched uproariously at their antics. "As a matter of fact, they're the closest friends imaginable. The Smiths and Frys have been neighbors for fifteen years. I think one would cut off his right hand for the other. And the funny thing about it is that their wives get along just about as well as they do. When you've been married as long as I have you'll appreciate that as being something unique."

"You don't have to tell me that," laughed John, his mouth filled with a mustard-covered "hot dog." "I've been married long enough to know something about the peculiarities of women."

"Well," retorted Pat, "you'll learn a lot more as you go along," and went on to explain about his neighbors. "The Frys," he said, "have two kids. The Smiths had one—a boy—and he died. Since then they've developed an unusual fondness for the little Fry children. I think it's Mrs. Smith's bitterest complaint against life that she can't have any more children."

"The Ormes," asked John. "Have they had any children?"

"None. Might be a good thing if they had. They've been married eight years."

The daylight had almost vanished, and the wood fire beneath the little brick oven cast a cherry light. John saw Nell Orme rise slowly to her feet and stretch luxuriously and experienced a pleasure in watching her movements that was hard to account for. A sudden language seemed to be in every step she took.

"You hinted," he reminded Pat Forbes, "that all was not well between Howard and Nell Orme."

Forbes lighted a cigarette and blew several lazy wreaths of smoke before he answered. "No, they don't seem to get along. Drowned if I can understand it, either. They've got a little money—he's a fairly successful contractor—and they've both got looks; but privately they fight like cats and dogs. You'd never suspect it to meet them in a crowd."

"Do you suppose he's jealous of her?" suggested John, watching Nell as she helped the other women clear up the dishes.

"I don't know. Lord knows she's attractive enough to be dangerous to any husband's peace of mind. But I don't think so. I might be wrong, though." He resumed blowing smoke wreaths.

"The women came over to them. 'What are you two doing here—cooking up scandal?' It was Marian Forbes, her shiny face smiling at them."

Mrs. Fry said, "I understand you've got a little baby girl, Mr. Milburn," and her husband, with a furtive kick at the unsuspecting Smith, added: "Teah, how does it feel, Milburn—do you want our congratulations or our condolences?"

Mrs. Fry burst out indignantly. "How awful of you, Elmer, to talk like that!" Pat Forbes murmured, in a stage whisper, "Condolences, of course," and Nell Orme, John saw, was saying nothing; only smiling and waiting, apparently, for him to speak.

"Perhaps I could take a little of both," he smiled, his eyes resting on Nell for an instant as he took in the rest of the company. "I'm proud enough of my daughter, but I seem to have grown mighty unimportant in the last two days. If I seem a little nervous remember it is the first time I have played the role. Pat here, with three, knows his lines by heart."

There was a shout of laughter, and Pat Forbes came in for a good deal of raillery. Pat, once he could make himself heard, said, "Yes, and I'm going to try to unlearn 'em, by cracky," and there were several horrified exclamations from the women.

"I'm going to organize the children and put them to bed," said Marian Forbes. She called down to the water's edge: "Frank! Mary! Jackie!"

"Want me to help you, dear?" asked Pat as he lolled in the sand. "No," his wife answered, "you stay here and keep John company. I won't be long." She added, "I'm not swimming tonight, so I won't miss much of the fun."

John watched her, silently admiring the skill with which she marshaled the protesting children and had them say good night to everyone. Mrs. Fry, too, was bundling her garrulous youngsters off to bed, and their father upset them in the sand roughly before saying good night.

"You've got a mighty fine place here," John said to Smith.

"Yes," remarked the fat man complacently. "It's pretty nice now. It was a lot of work getting it into shape, though. This beach, for instance, is all made. We bought the sand in town and had it hauled out."

"Do you own the lake?"

"Yes. We formed a corporation—bought up all the land surrounding the lake. We're ready to sell a few little homesites to the proper parties. An equity in the lake goes with each lot."

"You might buy a piece yourself," John suggested.

"Sure," agreed Pat. "Glad to have you."

"Well, I might, at that—some time," said John.

Howard Orme, who had been silent for a long time, remarked, "Bring your wife out some time and see how she likes it. I think you'd find it a good investment. This stuff out here is bound to increase in value."

"Why, thanks," John looked at him curiously, a little surprised at Orme's friendliness.

Pat Forbes got up to throw more wood on the fire. It crackled cheerfully and sent up showers of sparks. Smith miraculously produced a bottle, and passed it to John.

"Let's kill it quick, before the ladies get back," he said. "Needn't be afraid of it. Milburn, it's pretty good stuff. Not enough to pass around to the whole crowd. It'll take the chill off."

"They don't appreciate it, anyway," said Pat. "They'd want to mix it with ginger ale."

"Smith, old socks," said Fry, "every once in a while you perform some little act which stamps you as a human being. This is one of the times. Pat, pass the bottle, you rum guzzler."

SCENE FROM "PIGS" AT FISHERS APPLETON, WED. JUNE 9

Pat, after a loud smacking of the lips, sighed regretfully and passed the bottle to Fry. "Not bad, Smith," he announced judicially. "Where'd you get it?"

"For five dollars I'll give you my bootlegger's phone number," answered Smith. "Fry, for God's sake save me some of it."

John noticed, after the bottle had been emptied and buried deep in the sand that Howard Orme had not taken any of the whisky; that, as a matter of fact, Smith had not actually offered him any, but had only half hesitated before passing him by.

While he was meditating on this a woman's voice, low-pitched and vibrant, broke in on the silence. He recognized it as Nell Orme's, although she was hidden from view by the intervening firelight. "Who's going in?" she asked, emerging from the darkness. "I'll race anybody across the lake and back."

She stood silhouetted against the crackling light, her weight on one leg and a hand resting gracefully on her hip. Again John noted the scantiness of her bathing suit and the flowing curves of her. He glanced sharply at Howard Orme and was curious to know how he regarded this careless exhibition his wife was making.

But Orme's face was an inscrutable mask. "The freight cast fitful shadows across his features and played on his thin-lipped mouth."

"Well," Nell demanded, moving indolently across the fire-lit circle, her hips swaggering.

"I've had enough," remarked Orme.

"How about you, Pat?" said John. "I can't swim a stroke, John," and he stirred lazily. "Besides, I'm too well content right here."

None of the other men made a move. Fry snored insultingly, and Smith, stretched at lazy full length, reminded John of a quotation from Shakespeare that he couldn't correctly remember—something about the judge whose belly was lined with fat capon.

John got up. "Well," he said, hesitantly. "I haven't been in yet, and I think I'd like a little swim."

"Go on!" urged Fry. "Try to keep up with Nell and you'll get enough." He laughed. Orme smiled.

Nell led the way down to the water's edge and John paddled around experimentally with his feet, then waded out with Nell to the springing board.

An orange moon hung low in the sky, and Nell's wet skin gleamed like silver beneath its light. She moved out to the edge of the board and turned her head to ask, "Across and back?"

"Sure," he said.

"All right," she called provocatively. "Try to catch me." She poised for an instant and then her lithe body cleaved the air like an arrow in flight.

PUT SOME STUFF ON THE BALL DAD

Or I'll Lose It For You'

Says the 'Kid' — and it's pretty good advice too — You've got to have "the stuff on the old ball," now-a-days, or the act doesn't go over. It doesn't make a particle of difference, whether it's straw hats, chewing gum, or Gasoline — people want things that are good, that have "some stuff" in them.

When you stoke up the car in preparation for what you hope will be miles and miles of care-free, pleasant driving—get the right stuff in the tank and crank case—Play safe with De Bauf-er's Tested Gasoline and 100% Pure Pennsylvania Oil. That's good judgment.

This Day In Memory Of—

Memorial Day is in tribute to those gone, to the good they gave when here on earth, to the sweeter world we have because they lived.

It is a day of Reverence, and yet of Rejoicing—for having had them and having what their Life contributed, which is greatly more than Memory.

It is a day of Rejoicing, knowing their Reward is granted, that Perpetual Reward which is so Bountiful, so Gleaming, so Joyful and so Endless.

And as we bow in Prayer this day, as we stoop to place the wreath upon their Bed, as we hear the Echo of the Drum and Bugle, and the Boom of distant Canon—we indeed have reason to Rejoice, with the deep meaning which Memorial Day holds.
